Along with his usual garbage, in Joosten's 9/15 he quotes a letter that sounds much like Sylvia, an impression consistent with his introduction to it:"...I'm afraid that I gave up a ,ong time ago on the idea that the truth concerning the assassinations would ever come out during the forseeable future, if ever. I admire your tenacity' I,too, was tenacious for about seven years and now I have become resigned to the futility of even making a dent." The seven years would eliminate Sylvia unless she reached this conclusions then, which is also consistent with much. lm 10/3/72
